FIFTY-FIFTH YEAR NO. 17.

CEDARVILLE, OHIO, FRIDAY, APRIL 1, 1932.

PRICE, $1.50 A YEAR

NEWS LETTER FROM STATE DEPARTMENTS

COLUMBUS—The second edition of the Election Laws of the State of Ohio are being mailed to Boards of Elections in the eighty-eight counties of the state by Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown. The volume contains the amendments to the election code passed by the present General Assembly, citations from the citizenship and naturalization laws of the United States, the federal corrupt practices act and the federal law relating to presidential elections. The issuance of the second volume was made necessary by the adoption of the amendments.

Members of the General Assembly are meeting in extraordinary session, having been called by Gov. White. All legislation will be confined to the consideration of such matters as are presented or recommended by the Governor, who appeared personally before the lawmakers and read his message, dealing with relief for the unemployed. He recommended an increase in the utility excise tax of one per cent; also authority for local communities to divert their share of gasoline taxes for relief work. It is estimated that under these plans approximately $23,500,000 will be made available.

Preliminary totals issued by Secretary of State, Clarence J. Brown, indicates that approximately 1,518,696 passenger cars carried Ohio licenses in 1931. In 1930, this figure was somewhat higher, being in that year 1,566,342. The total revenue derived by the state from license plate sales was, in 1931, $13,659,428.92, which was also lower than the 1930 total. One class of vehicles, truck trailers, showed a substantial increase, the 1930 total was 24,451 while the 1931 figure was about 32,717 or an increase of about one-third.

Portraits of Ohio's governors which adorn the corridors of the state house have taken on a new lease of life. Decorators have touched them up, varnished the surfaces and refixed the frames, so that the portraits look as if they were fresh from the brush of the artist. There are forty-nine of these portraits, one of which is Arthur St. Clair, first Governor of the Northwest Territory. Ohio has had forty-nine governors, several serving two and three terms each.

On April 30, 1802, an act of Congress authorized the formation of a state government for Ohio; on November first following the state was formed and named Ohio by the first Constitutional Convention, held at Chillicothe. The first election for Governor and members of the General Assembly, together with other state and county officials was held the second Tuesday in January, 1803, Edward Tiffin of Ross county being elected without opposition. He had served as president of the Constitutional Convention. He assumed the Governorship March 1, 1803. The state at the time was composed of nine counties, Adams, Belmont, Clermont, Fairfield, Hamilton, Jefferson, Ross, Trumbull and Washington.

The Division of Safety and Hygiene of the Industrial Commission of Ohio announces a pronounced decrease in accident frequency and severity over the state for the month of February for that of the corresponding month of last year, there being 1,503 fewer injuries, 16 less fatalities and a reduction of 122,119 days of time lost. All of the Ohio Safety Congress, which will be held in the Capital City, April 21-22.

Making More Paper; Using Less Water

"We are making more paper today than ever before and you may judge for yourself as to its quality—practically all of our orders come from regular customers—and our water consumption is less than 25 percent of what it used to be.

There was a ring of justifiable pride in the foregoing statement as it came from W. W. Galloway, general manager of the Hagar Straw Board and Paper Co. at Cedarville. Five years ago, "most any straw paper man would have suggested a mental examination for anyone in the industry who even suggested such a possibility. Nevertheless, it has been and is being done at Cedarville.

A few years ago this company was faced with the necessity of correcting a severe case of stream pollution in Massie Creek, caused by waste water from its plant at Cedarville. There was even some talk of closing the plant. Then the present manager was placed in charge of affairs. Storage ponds were built in the valley of the creek downstream from the plant and the waste water was discharged by gravity to these ponds to be stored until such time as flood-flows in the creek would permit it to be discharged gradually without causing harm. In successful, however, it was necessary to materially lessen the volume of waste water produced. This meant either the use of less water or the re-circulation and reuse of the plant water supply. Straw paper men declared poor sheet and trouble.

One who has seen the mountains of torn and crumpled paper accumulating in no time, around a paper machine while men work frantically over, under and between trains of hot rolls to straighten things out, will appreciate what "trouble" is and what it means to a paper mill man to have the sheet "go bad."

Nevertheless the men at the Cedarville mill have buckled down to the task and, slowly and methodically, changes here and adjustments there in plant processes have been made so that instead of producing 40,000 gallons of waste water per ton of paper manufactured, this plant is operating successfully with a waste water production of less than 10,000 gallons per ton. This result has been achieved by persistent effort in the face of many difficulties and not without considerable trouble.

Mr. Galloway has hopes of further decreasing the volume of waste water at Cedarville. His has been a notable achievement of much importance to the industry and he is to be congratulated. It certainly is to be hoped that his good success will continue, indefinitely.

As for stream pollution—there is none below the Hagar Straw Board & Paper Co. at Cedarville.

Planting Pruning Seeding

Today, Friday, is Arbor Day, and it will have more interest as to tree planting than many such events in years past. In many places "Town and City Beautification" is a part of the observance of George Washington's 200th birthday celebration. The planting of trees is to be general this year in recognition of the event, so that Arbor Day this year is to be out standing and its purpose to be continued for some months yet. This movement for tree planting is being encouraged by most all civic organizations.

There are many trees to be planted in this section by various organizations. Just where has been a problem and the Herald has selected one place where such trees will have care and attention, especially during the first few years. Consent has been given by the Board of Public Affairs for tree planting by organizations or individuals on the water-works site that should be beautified as it will always be public property, so far as one might guess at this time. The site is not only granted but the Board through its chairman, Mr. Ralph Wolford, goes so far as to give aid in this work without expense of the organizations. All that is required is the provide the tree. Some regulation as to location must be observed. Let's get behind this movement and boost. Now is the time to act for young trees should be set out this month in this section.

Spring pruning of the hardy roses should be done before the growth starts. Cutting back the late blooming hydrangea will encourage new growth and larger flowers. The rose of Sharon, butterfly bush and snowberry also may be cut back in spring. To trim spirea now you will lose the spring bloom. Prune spirea after it blooms.

Easter is past and the Easter Lily has had its annual place and admired by millions of people. Of course the plants you had for Easter are hot-house grown. When it comes to hardy lilies keep in mind the Lillium Regale, or the Regal Lily. It will grow almost anywhere and under any condition. It makes a quick growth of four or five feet and is covered with long and pointed foliage. The center of the bloom is flushed with yellow, shading to white at the outer edges. On the outside are streaks of brown, shaded with a pearly tint. The bulbs should be planted in the fall or early spring at a depth of five inches. The flowers in this section will appear in July. There are many kinds of lilies adapted to this section. Lillium Candidum, a native of France, Lillium Excelsum with apricot color and dull orange anthers. The tiger lily can be grown with most ease and requires little care. Always plant lilies in groups of three or five at different locations in beds with other flowers.

COUNCIL MUST REDUCE STREET LIGHTING COST

The village legislative body had an experience Wednesday night that has not fallen on council for many years. The problem of finance is just as important to the public as to the individual. Although the village had an increase in the real estate duplicate of several thousand dollars, the personal duplicate has slipped to nothing under classification. For this reason there must be a curtailment of local activities along many lines and the public must be content without part of the electric lights.

Mr. E. H. Heathman, representing the Dayton Power & Light Co., and City Solicitor Harry D. Smith, met with council to get a working agreement suitable to the company and council.

It was generally understood that smaller or lower candle power lamps must be used and about one-third of the present lamps dropped until such time as funds are available. Council took the initiative in the matter rather than incur a debt on the village by having unpaid light bills. Mr. Heathman will submit a plan where lamps can be dropped and yet give each section all the light possible until funds are secured, and no one knows at this time when that will be.

Different methods were discussed to going on the mid-night schedule or dropping some lights. Council only received about $303 for street lighting for six months when the bill under the contract is $181.16 a month. The plan now is to get the cost down to about $55 a month and many of the lights must be cut off. For the protection of property it was the general opinion that we needed lights more after midnight for protection than before that hour.

While most property owners paid about the same tax on their real estate, a few paid more due to higher valuations. We have secured some figures that citizens may know just what council faces in finance.

The duplicate for 1931 was real estate $658,830; personal, $536,910, with a total of $1,195,740.

The duplicate for 1932 is: real estate, $739,280; personal, $582,700, with a total of $1,321,980. This brings the total village duplicate down to $229,100, a loss over 1931 of $367,140.

The estimated income under classification is: Intangibles, $1,513.70 and on personal property $101, a total of $1,614.70. It is plainly evident to all that while real estate in most cases has paid more taxes this year, personal property and intangibles escape with little or no tax.

There will be no funds for street improvement or repair other than the village's share of gasoline tax and the license tax. The percentage for the later when the law was changed cut the village's share, the difference going to the state highway department.

It is also almost certain at this time that council will not have funds to provide the new pump for the last well at the water plant, due to the tax law. The situation is no fault of the officials who had nothing to do with passing the tax law. It will not be pleasing to property owners to pay more taxes on their real estate and then not have some of the protection and advantages of the past under the old law. Fire and police protection is to be cut to the lowest point to keep the village from running in debt. The village has not had a deficit in forty years and council will eliminate many things to live within the income and have no debt. The public must face the situation as it is for council is not responsible for increasing the real estate duplicate, nor the law that has shrunk the personal duplicate to a mere pittance. The story is best told by pointing out that property owners have been "classified", while owners of personal property have been exempted.

The Xenia Rotary Club is staging the first annual Boys' Hobby Fair to be opened May 6 in the Jobe Brothers Co., building in that city. The public schools have been solicited to make entries and many are now filed. The club anticipates nearly 1,000 entries. Boys can enter until April 15th. Every boy has a hobby and the purpose of the club is to encourage boys to devote their spare time to developing their talents and then display their accomplishment to the public. The club has a list of 130 prizes that are to be awarded. S. N. McClelland is general chairman.

Mrs. Anna Collins Smith and daughter, Barbara, of Indianapolis, have been spending the week at home.

ALL FOOLS DAY NO FOOLER FOR TAXPAYER

Today, Friday, is "All Fools Day" but Mr. Common Citizen is not to be fooled with Congress handing out tax legislation by the billion and the Ohio legislature drawing around thirty million for public relief. Congress last week turned down the sales tax and this week picks out a score or more ways to find a few hundred million to balance the budget, rather than reduce the cost of government one cent.

Income, automobile, amusement, chewing gum, furs and a long list of articles used every day have been singled out for the new tax. As for results Congress might just as well stood by the sales tax and treated all interests the same. The private citizen must now pay three cents for letter postage to keep up the post-office building program which is breaking up the government. Telephone and telegraph messages, bank checks and safety boxes in banks are included and the citizen is floundering to the grave and higher inheritance taxes are imposed. Congress is thoroughly intoxicated with the tax raising fever and may not stop even at balancing the budget, a thing that has not happened the past few years. Why now, Washington does not tell us?

It has been proposed to pay the World War Veterans the balance of their adjusted compensation that would cost about two billion more. President Hoover immediately announced opposition to this and threatens a veto. Congress seems determined to give the President a chance. While this is no time for billion dollar tax collections, yet Congress might just as well give the Veterans what is due them. The boys who served in the trenches have as much right to their money as the foreign nations have had to billion dollar loans from this nation. We no longer look on government in terms of millions but billions now and two billion more debt cannot make matters much worse for the taxpayer and the consumer who must pay the bill. It does appear as if there was no way to break down mounting governmental costs other than wrecking the nation completely by taxing industry and the people until both are lifeless.

There is no encouragement for business and certainly no prospect for improved markets for farm products under such a system of taxation being forced on the people at a time when they are least able to carry the load. Disappointment is evident everywhere. Party lines are completely broken down not only in Congress in passing tax legislation, but over the country. The nation is headed for a revolt on the part of taxpayers just as citizens of Chicago have refused to pay taxes the past two years.

Mr. Edward E. Greiner, candidate for Congress on the Republican ticket is the only candidate that has an open platform on governmental costs. He says the government is spending fourteen billion dollars annually. Six billion dollars goes into the hands of officials. He suggests that public officials on the government payroll take a 15 per cent cut on salaries which would bring a saving of some hundred million dollars. In two years the deficit which exists would be practically wiped out. There is reason and good argument for such a reduction but the nation is in the hands of elective and appointed officials most of whom are fighting salary reductions. Mr. Greiner says agriculture and industry have been forced to accept cuts in all profits and incomes and the government should do likewise.

The Greiner platform also says officials are trying to restore prosperity by increased taxation. "This in my judgment is the wrong thing to do, and not fair to the American people." Mr. Greiner is actively engaged in business as well as the owner of a farm. He knows both sides. His best judgment is reflected in his platform. His interests cannot be taxed without injury to all other interests during such a time when all business is at a standstill. Sending a professional office seeking politician to congress that does not own more than an automobile, a pair of mortgages, a shiny trouser seat and a pair of elbows, is no promise that even the Seventh District has contributed to a possible change in conditions over what we experience today. If we expect such a change we must take a candidate at his printed and spoken word, pledging his vote first to reduce his own salary as congressman and support such measures as will lift some of the burden from business, industry and agriculture. You can never expect a professional politician to vote this way and being true to his ideals of government one of Mr. Greiner's opponents, who has drawn thousands and thousands of dollars in public salary, is making no promise or pledge, secretly or openly that he will vote otherwise than to continue the salary appointees as they are now—or even grant them higher salaries with an occasional increase for himself if he should be successful. Mr. Greiner is to be congratulated on his open platform.

DUTIES OF PROPERTY OWNERS

While property owners carry insurance for fire protection and probably have not been getting all that was due them in case of a fire loss, there are numerous responsibilities all property owners must carry. Due caution must be exercised to keep property free as possible from fires. In France where a fire is the result of negligence, and a neighbor's property burns, the loss falls on the one responsible for the fire. In Cincinnati if you are notified to remove a fire hazard and do not and fire results, the cost of taking the fire department out is placed against the property owner. With all property owners using more care as fire hazards, we would have lower insurance rates.

TRICKS of MAGIC EXPLAINED by WILL. Lindhorst

HOW TO KNOCK A CARD THROUGH TABLE

Have somebody select a card and place it on top of a pack. Lay the pack on a table near the edge and inform your audience that you will knock the card selected through the table. Secretly moisten the back of your hand with saliva, strike the pack a blow and quickly lower your hand beneath the table, as though to catch the card as it falls. The top card of the pack will stick to the back of your moistened hand, where it is hidden from view, and will be carried below the table as you lower your hand. You then pick it off the floor and bring it back to the table.

"HERALD WANT AND SALE ADS PAY"

The Herald had quite a compliment paid it in the last issue of "Nation's business, monthly magazine of national scope of interest to bankers, manufacturers and business men, quoted a recent editorial from the Herald on governmental activity in private business.

Should all the candidates, Republican and Democratic, running in the primary for sheriff and county commissioner, come to Cedarville at one time the authorities would have to enforce parking regulations to the letter. There are two Republican and five Democratic candidates for sheriff and eleven Republican and two Democratic candidate for commissioner.

The part that certain organized farm interests are taking against the organization of county taxpayers' associations, is not going to do farm interests any good. Most of these tax organizations are urging a reduction in cost of all government but want to see the knife applied at the top of the list in Washington and Columbus first and not single out the little fellows. When large salaries are reduced it will not be long until the cut will follow down to county, city, town and township with school included. The cut would have been made sooner but for the organized farm politicians on the public pay roll.

While the legislature was convening Tuesday afternoon to pass laws to provide relief due to unemployment, a crowd estimated from 1000 to 1500 men were assembled on the north side of the Capitol to hear talks by Communist leaders who were ridiculing the plans for public relief. All sorts of banners were in evidence to appeal to men out of employment that it was money they wanted, not food or clothing. A few banners called for unemployment insurance. Much has been said about the dole as provided in England, yet there is dissatisfaction there because it is not larger. There is no place for the dole in this country and those who have advocated unemployment insurance have only added to the unrest that exists. The large per centage of laboring men are not in sympathy with the dole but they do want a chance to make an honest living by their labor to provide for themselves and their families.

The problem of employment the next few years promises to be an important one due to the fact that so many of our large companies have opened branch factories in various parts of the world where labor is very much cheaper. With mass production at home and a limited market, we fear the labor problem is to give the country something serious to think about.

Congressman Will Wood of Indiana in a radio address Monday night told the nation that higher taxes were to be forced on the people regardless of the consequences and the people must accept it and support the government. He says the budget must be balanced but nothing was said about the powers in Washington operating the government on its present income. Moreover he took everyone to task who was criticizing the President during the present depression.

It is not likely that Cong. Wood even made a vote for President for his re-election for the reason the public has a different idea about the plan proposed to balance the budget. More taxes at this critical time are just as disturbing to the Hoover administration as the public as the criticism. We might refer back to the days of the Woodrow Wilson administration when Republicans even ridiculed his League of Nations plan while he was on his death bed. We opposed the Wilson plan at that time and President Hoover must take his share of criticism along with any other public officials. He is no superhero and has made mistakes, and no doubt will make more in the future of public office. Admission of a mistake and willingness to make correction will win more confidence on the part of the public.

Within the past few months many of our prominent business men have been taken by death. Many only in the fifties but when we examine their business careers they have no doubt been put through a test that has been more than the mind and body would endure. Several have taken their own lives over business worries and great loss financially. These are trying times, pay-day as the saying goes for the "joy-ride" the past ten or fifteen years. Great fortunes were won and lost within that period. Good will comes out of it only by obeying the economic laws. No make-shift plan can be devised to take the place of the law of supply and demand. It is fundamental and cannot be escaped any more than the ten laws laid down by Moses.

The Preble County Tax Payers' league has taken action and is urging a reduction of 10 to 25 per cent in the value of real estate in that county. The league has already taken up the question with the board of revision in the county and it will go next to the State Tax Commission. Many of the Taxpayers' Associations are going to take this position along with the line of salary reductions from top to bottom in the state.

Business is on the up-grade with gasoline prices going up every few days, another one-half cent being added Tuesday. The shortage of gasoline or excessive demand cannot be responsible for the increased price as motor traffic has dropped, fewer automobiles licensed, but the companies force up the price in the face of very low wholesale prices. "Sometimes our biggest executives misread the subtle mind and often 'kill the goose that lays the golden egg.'" What this town needs is an independent oil station that can supply gasoline at lower prices. Local dealers cannot help themselves for the big companies only a few weeks ago took off part of their profit. The big oil companies make the claim that if the public can afford to pay an additional cent a gallon tax it can also afford to pay one more cent profit.

A "human checker game" is being played between authorities in Middletown, O., and Monette county, Ky., over a man and his wife, and six children. The family had come to Middletown where the father could get work in the days of prosperity. The family has been destitute for a number of weeks and Middletown ships the family back to Kentucky. The Kentucky authorities say the family has lost its residence legally in that state and returns the parents and children by train back to Middletown. It being Middletown's next move the family was dispatched back to Kentucky Saturday, with the demand that they had better not return to Middletown. Thus you have the situation of cities two years ago begging rural people to move into the city, a setup job of the census bureau to count them and all other out of town workers, as citizens. When it comes time to feed them now the authorities are doing everything possible to unload the unemployed back on the rural sections. The city pay roll was the attraction. The city took all the money from this class that was possible and now unemployed labor is forced to return to the country, for the rural sections to support. Now the cities are asking the state to finance relief for the hungry. Bonds to be issued and paid by a utility tax that may be added to your gas, light or telephone bill. If not sufficient funds can be raised in this manner to pay the bonds, then real estate is to be taxed. Money, bonds, etc. can be taxed to pay bonds under classification. Someday the real estate owners will awake to what classification was for. Kentucky has classification and is now millions in debt and the legislature adjourned in a hot fight without making provision to pay the debt created by classification.

Henry M. Leland, noted automobile engineer died last week at the age of 89 years, after rising to a prominent place in the industrial world, and then tasting of the descent that frequently comes to many men some time in life. Leland was the first inventor of the horse-clippers and later the model in use in barber shops. When the automobile looked like a prospect for future business he designed the first Cadillac and was president of the company many years. Following the sale of this company to General Motors he developed the Lincoln, which later gave him fame but cost him much of his fortune. History will always be generous with him as accomplishments must always be credited to him. The business world of today is a cold and in some respects a cruel place and what should always be the ripe and mellow years of declining life, turn out to be the reverse.

The announcement that Cedarville College will have a summer school during the vacation period will add to the stir of the village during the summer. It will mean new boarders and roomers and should stimulate local business. Early reports indicate a good attendance.

What about wheat this year and is the farmer to be any better rewarded than last year? This question is now being discussed. What can be done about it no one seems to know. Australia, New Zealand and Chile harvested wheat in January. Egypt in February and March. Next month, May, Texas will begin. In June a tier of the southern states turn out a crop. July finds the central states in mid-harvest and the northern states and Canada come next. Reports are that Texas and most of the southwestern wheat states have been favored with plenty of snow and spring rains to insure a crop. Western elevators are bulging yet with the 1931 crop. How can wheat be sold and who is there to purchase it? Uncle Sam's farm board of farmer politicians are still in existence with a two million a year pay roll and losing money each week on millions of bushels of wheat purchased with the taxpayer's money. From indications it looks like we are to have plenty of wheat even to feed hogs, but the political swine fattening on fat salaries will have no worries.

OBITUARY OF WILLIAM BRADFUTE; DIED FRIDAY

The psalmist says "How say ye to my soul, flee as a bird to your mountain?" Friday night, March 25th at 11:20 P. M., the soul of William Bradfute, peacefully winged its way to that place over there that had been prepared for this husband and father of five boys.

He first saw the light of day on a farm in Greene Co., near Clifton, O., the son of John K. and Cornelia Bradfute, November 1867. Here he learned to love nature and all growing things. The plant kingdom seemed to know him, and his touch would give life to any erstwhile drooping rose. His love for flowers throughout his entire life, and the one joy he expressed during his long illness, was for the pleasure and comfort, the flowers in his room, gave to him.

He passed on to the other world at the age of 64 years, 4 months and 22 days; being preceded in death by one sister, besides father and mother. Four sisters and one brother stand at the bier today, mourning a brother, who constantly believed, blindly and implicitly, and practiced loyalty to his family and relatives.

His youth and early manhood was spent on the farm working with his father. At the age of 12, following the service, he stood up, acknowledged the King and was accepted as a member of the United Presbyterian church of Cedarville, O. To this faith, he remained steadfast, until he moved to Washington, C. H. with his own family in 1897. His letter was transferred to the Presbyterian church, from which he asked that it not be removed, during his lifetime.

On New Year's eve, Dec. 31st, 1891, he was married to Orla Emma Lott of Cedarville, O., who has remained ever loving and loyal with the afflicted husband. Five boys were born of this union, all of whom survive the father. John Harold of Pittsburgh, Pa., William Paul of Columbus, O., Fred Lott of Cleveland, O., Robert Glenn of Gary, Ind., and Edward Mills, who makes his home with his mother.

Perhaps next to his love of nature, was his great desire to see, play with, and love his grand-children.

The laughter and childish pranks of the four grand-daughters and two grand-sons, who survive him, were never stilled while near him.

Fifteen years ago, the hustle and busy life, he had led providing for his wife, and fathering his five boys, was suddenly stopped. God in his wisdom, doeth things, though we humans may never, his meaning learn.

From active participation in life, the father gradually through the years took on an attitude of detached calm. Though pain may have been with him in the flesh yet to no one did he complain of it; but always he asked that he might see his friends, and hear the children and have close to his bed, within the reach of his hand, a flower.

"Blessed is the man whom thou chooseth, and causest to approach unto thee, that he may dwell in thy courts."

Divide Dual Debate
Cedarville affirmative team was returned victor by a close vote of the audience in a debate with Wittenberg's negative team at Springfield, Wednesday evening. The question was, Resolved, that the entrance of women into the political and industrial life of the U. S. is to be deplored. The Cedarville team was the Misses Martha Waddle and Eloise McLaughlin, silent member, and Messrs. Marion Hostetter and Joseph Free. The negative was upheld by three co-eds of Wittenberg. There was keen matching of wits that was thoroughly enjoyed by the participants and the audience.

Tuesday evening in the local opera house the same question was debated the Wittenberg team upholding the affirmative and Cedarville, the negative. Cedarville team was the Misses Elias, Douthett, and Martin. The decision of the audience was for the affirmative. It would seem that while practical folk do favor women being in politics and industry, the idealist's argument for love, mother, and home touches the heart strings most and offers the opportunity for the building of the argument that moves the hearers.

Two more debates complete C. C.'s schedule, one with Wilmington on the question of U. S. recognition of U. S. S. R. by our men's team, and one with Rio Grande by our co-ed team. Both will come the latter part of April, and will be held away from home.

THEATRE'S "FIRST LADY" COMING TO SPRINGFIELD

Ethel Barrymore, "first lady" of the American theatre, who is appearing for the first time on tour as Lady Teazle in Sheridan's world-famous comedy, "The School for Scandal", will come to Memorial Hall, Springfield, on Saturday night, April 2, for one performance only.

The engagement will be the high point of the dramatic season of our foremost actress will be seen in a play one of the finest comedies in English. Miss Barrymore has played "The School for Scandal" on no other occasion when she and her uncle John Drew headed an all-star cast from The Players' Club some years ago, but that production did not leave New York.

"The School for Scandal" has had many revivals in the last hundred and fifty years with the names of the foremost actors found on the old playbills. Like Shakespeare the Sheridan comedy has been played by almost every actor of prominence. But unlike the works of the Bard, "The School for Scandal" seems just as fresh and modern today as any of the contemporary works of the theatre, for it deals with a phase of life untimed and unchangeable through the ages, gossip and scandal among society.

There is widespread interest in this engagement, due not only to the star's remarkably fine performance and the gorgeously spectacular production, but also the skilled manner in which the Sheridan script has been transferred to the stage.

By a rearrangement of the scenes, reducing the many intermissions, the star has given to it the aspect of being more modern and seemingly faster in playing tempo, all of which greatly enhances its dramatic interest.

Miss Barrymore is supported by the distinguished New York cast, including Charles H. Croker-King, Beatrice King, Harry Gilbert, McKay Morris, Terry, Harry Plummer, Anita Rothe, William Kershaw, A. G. Andrews, Arthur Treacher, Charles Roman, and Miss Barrymore's youngest son, John Drew Colt.

IMPROVED SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for April 3

GOD IN CREATION

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 1:1-5, 26-31.
GOLDEN TEXT—In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth.
PRIMARY TOPIC—In the beginning God.
JUNIOR TOPIC—God the Creator.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Maker of All Things.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—God in Creation.

Genesis, the book from which the lessons of the quarter are taken, as its name indicates, is a book of beginnings. It contains the only reliable information we have of the origin of the heavens and the earth, plant and animal life, human life, human institutions, and human relations. Without it we would be absolutely ignorant as to the origin of these fundamental things. The first chapter of the book from which our lesson is taken is one of the most wonderful in the Bible. Indeed, it is the key to the whole Bible.

I. God (v. 1).
He was before all things. He had no beginning. Everything but God had a beginning. God, the uncaused cause, is the cause of all things. "Before the mountains were brought forth or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God" (Ps. 90:2).

II. The Origin of the Universe (v. 1).

It was created by God. All things came into being by the will and act of a personal God. The Hebrew word translated "create," according to reliable authority, is the strongest word which the Hebrew language has to express the idea of the origination of substance. The first four words of the Bible exhibit the one fundamental all-pervasive principle of philosophy of every right life. In the beginning of the universe—God. In the beginning of all science and philosophy—God. In the beginning of every life—God. In the beginning of every year—God. In the beginning of every day—God. In the beginning of every business—God. In the beginning of every human relationship—God. In the beginning of every thought—God.

III. The Degeneration of the Earth (v. 2).

Between verses one and two is a clearly marked interval of perhaps long duration. The earth which was created by God was later overthrown in a cataclysmic judgment. The Hebrew word for "was" might just as well have been translated "became." Instead, therefore, the earth having been created a void or chaos, we see that it became chaos through a judgment. In Isaiah 45:18 the prophet expressly declares that God did not create the earth a waste, but that he formed it to be inhabited.

IV. The Regeneration of the Earth (vv. 3-25).

As previously noted, the second verse of Genesis does not describe the state of the earth when it first came from the Creator's hands but a changed condition which took place subsequent thereto. The following verses reveal a new effort of creative power by which the earth is again fitted up for the habitation of man. The power active in this reorganization is the Holy Spirit. On the first day the voice of the Almighty was heard saying, "Let there be light," and the darkness was dispelled by the light. In the second day the expanse or firmament was made which separates the waters above the firmament from those below it. The third day dry land appeared clothed with vegetation. The fourth day witnessed the appearance of the light-bearers, the sun, moon, and stars. They were not created then, but set free from darkness and ruin. On the fifth day fish and birds were created and on the sixth day cattle, creeping things, beasts of the field, and man.

V. The Origin of Man (vv. 26-31).

He was created by God. This precludes the foolish idea that man ascended from or through the brute. He came into being through a special creative act of God. This image and likeness is not physical or bodily, but intellectual and moral (Eph. 4:24; Col. 3:10). God's likeness is reflected in man's three-fold nature. Man is spirit, soul, and body (1 Thess. 5:23). As there is a trinity and unity in God so there is a trinity in man. Spirit is that part of man by which he has the power to know God. Soul is self-conscious life, the seat of man's emotions and desires. The body is the seat of the senses, enabling man to have world consciousness. God made man to be a personality capable of having fellowship with himself, and with whom he could share his glory.

Song of Peace.

The bellies of all Christendom now roll along the upbroken song of peace on earth, good will to men!—Long-fellow.

Paths to Triumph

"God's trials nobly borne in obedience to his righteous will are the paths to victorious triumph."

Faith takes in a favorable light even what seems adverse.—Bengel.

Would You Spend A Few Cents to Save Several Dollars

Any one would spend a few cents to save a dollar. And that is exactly what you do, again and again, when you are subscribing for this paper and read its advertisements and act on their advice.

A single fortunate purchase saves you more than the price of a year's subscription. And buys you better things—for the table, for the house, for yourself. Smarter clothes, extra convenience, increased comfort. All sorts of new satisfactions.

From the good habit of reading the advertisements with care. The news they contain is valuable and practical. News that's good, news that is correctively informative on everyday problems of our economic life. At no time in the past third of a century has it been more important to be informed on public and local affairs that the individual can form his own opinion as to the best and safest method to meet present day conditions.
